Mrs. Susan Tilton of Colebrook, N. H., is ill at the home of her niece, Mrs. Lyman Holton.

Mrs. Warren Temple of St. Johnsbury visited her daughter, Mrs. Libby Lewis, the past week.

The many friends of Mrs. D. A. Pike will be grieved to hear of her death which occurred Saturday night. Mrs. Pike had been very ill the past two weeks from the results of pneumonia poisoning, and though all realized she was seriously ill, yet her death came as a shock to the community in which she had always lived and where she will be sadly missed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green and Mrs. Jane Williamson of St. Johnsbury were at D. A. Pike's, Sunday.

Fred Dodge was quite ill last week but is now improving.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gero moved to Miles Pond, Monday, where they will spend the winter. Mrs. Carrie Douglas accompanied them and will work at the boarding house.

Madam Van Blarcom left last week for her home in Jersey City, N. J., after having spent the summer with her son, Rev. Grant Van Blarcom.

A Birthday Party.
Viola May celebrated her eighth birthday, Saturday, October 5, by giving a party, that was enjoyed by 22 of her playmates. Out door games were enjoyed on the lawn and a delightful time enjoyed by all. Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served in the dining room. In the center of the long table was a beautiful birthday cake, resplendent with eight lighted candles, which elicited various exclamations of delight as the children gathered in. Many gifts of remembrance were left, and the day was one long to be remembered by the small hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Brewer and C. L. Stacy were at Guildhall the first of the week.

Mrs. John McDonald and Mrs. Ira Grant of East Concord were in town the last of the week.

Frank Winkley, who has spent the summer at H. A. Joslin's, leaves the last of the week for his home in Boston.

Herbert Gray of St. Johnsbury was a guest of Rexford Gray the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Haviland and daughter Sybil, and Mrs. Hannah McGinnis leave this week for Jay, where they will visit at D. J. Lunn's.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gilson of Burke are guests at O. F. Harvey's.

Mrs. Hannah Whitney was quite ill the last of the week.

Rev. and Mrs. M. H. Smith and children were at South Victory Saturday night to attend a chicken pie supper.

Paul McGregor, who was called here by the death of his mother, has returned home.

constant fear that another shock might come at any time. Thursday, September 26, she was found by her husband in an unconscious condition, and though she lived until Saturday morning, she did not gain consciousness.

Anna A. Waldron was born in New York city, October 30, 1850, the daughter of James H. and Mary A. Waldron. She was one of four children, only one of whom survive her, William H. Waldron of Massachusetts. Her early life was spent in New York, and she was married to Cassius McGregor, September 15, 1868, at Yonkers, N. Y. Six children were born to them, William Wallace, George Irving, and Paul, all of Massachusetts, Emma May, Susie Estelle and Belle, all three dying in infancy. Several years ago Mr. and Mrs. McGregor came here from Massachusetts and purchased the pleasant farm owned by George Carleton, and Mrs. McGregor made many friends by her quiet and gracious manner. She was a home lover, and there she was the happiest, fond of her husband and children her life was an inspiration to them, and in her death only pleasant memories are left, of a devoted wife and mother whose every thought had been for the happiness of her family and who never flinched from her duty as she saw it. Funeral services were held from her late home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Grant Van Blarcom officiating. Mr. and Mrs. May sang her favorite selection "Saved by Grace." The interment was in the cemetery here. The flowers were many and beautiful. The sympathy of all is extended to Mr. McGregor and his sons.

Field Day.

It has been years since Concord saw so many people within its limits, as came here Saturday to attend the Modern Woodmen's Field Day. The St. Johnsbury Center band furnished music throughout the day. Though old Boreas continued to sprinkle the crowd occasionally all day it did not dampen their enthusiasm or thin the ranks. Concord camp won the $10 prize offered for the best drilled camp, against St. Johnsbury and Lyndonville. In the tug of war St. Johnsbury won the $5 prize. In the ball game between East Concord and St. Johnsbury, St. Johnsbury won 5 to 9; the wheelbarrow race was won by Henry Baker, prize $1; eating contest, Willie Stanley, prize $1; sack race, Willie Virtue, prize $1; orange race, Willie Virtue, prize $50; bicycle race, Henry Baker, prize $1; running race, Charles McPherson, prize $1. They served a beautiful dinner at the town hall at noon, and closed with a dance in the evening, patronized by 50 couples. Mrs. Brock's orchestra furnished music. This was the 24 annual Field Day the Woodmen have held.

The Royal Month and the Royal Disease.
Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its buncches, cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative, consumption.

PEACHAM.

Hebberthwaite-Bailey.
There was a very pretty wedding Tuesday evening, Oct. 1, at the home of Walter H. Bailey, when his daughter, Agnes, was united in marriage to Howard Hebberthwaite of Deal Beach, N. J. The parlor was prettily decorated with autumn leaves, woodbine, asters and hydrangeas. Alma and Ellen, the younger sisters of the bride, preceded the bride party, each carrying a chain of woodbine. Between the chains came the bride and groom and their attendants to the strains of wedding music played by Mrs. Ellen N. Gray. The bride wore a gown of white embroidered lace over chiffon with a foundation of white silk and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Miss Louise Bailey acted as bridesmaid, while John H. Varnum was best man for the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. K. Williams and was a ring service. About 40 were present, including the family and their boarders, the nearest relatives of the bride and groom, and a few school mates. After the ceremony cake, coffee and chicken sandwiches were served. The wedding presents were abundant, consisting of china, silver, cut glass, and table linen in abundance, comprising no less than 10 nice long tablecloths, and last but not least, tickets for a trip abroad, and the happy couple took the night train at St. Johnsbury for New York, whence they sailed Thursday afternoon on the Baltic for England. They will be "at home" after Nov. 12, at Deal Beach, N. J.

A Poultry Food of Genial Merit.
The manufacturer of any stock food must be attentive to all the details of its preparation, being certain that only first class materials enter into its composition. It is claimed for "Page's Perfected Poultry Food" that there doesn't enter into its composition a single particle of the ordinary meat meal which is the basis for so many poultry foods. The nearest approach to it is what is known as Tallow Scraps or Cracklings, and every grandmother who has lived on a farm and taken care of chickens knows that there is nothing better to make hens lay than Tallow Scraps, and "Page's Perfected Poultry Food" contains a considerable percentage of this ingredient.

Any one sending his address on a postal card to C. S. Page, Hyde Park, Vt., and mentioning this paper, will receive by mail, free, postpaid, a sample package of "Page's Perfected Poultry Food."

Crawford

Cooking-Ranges

What Our NEW TYPE of Range Means

Maintaining the Crawford reputation for progress, we have constructed a new type of range which is better than even our heretofore best. In this new design the useless and awkward End Hearth is omitted. The ashes are disposed of by falling into a HOD far below the fire, which makes their removal easier and the grates to last longer. The Coal and Ash Hods are side by side, of the same size, and the Ash Hod being emptied can be returned full of coal. There is also more room on top of these ranges. The "Palace" is extra large size and the "Castle" smaller.

All the famous Crawford features are present: Single Damper, Patented Grate, Cup-Joint Oven Flues, Asbestos-Backed Oven, Improved Oven Indicator.

Educational Meetings.

Two educational meetings were held at the church at Lower Waterford on Tuesday, Oct. 1, 1907. About 40 attended the teacher's meeting in the afternoon in which the district superintendent, Harvey Burbank of Danville, spoke of the policy which he hopes to see carried through to success in the schools during the school year closing next June. Mason S. Stone of Montpelier, state superintendent of education, gave a very interesting and helpful address on school work and school conditions in general, and devoted considerable time to the correct method of teaching reading.

The evening meeting was attended by over 100 people. Supt. Burbank, who at the request of the school board acted as chairman, asked the people of Waterford to visit the schools and encourage the teachers and school officers in their work. He spoke in appreciative terms of the earnest and conscientious work which is being done by the teachers and directors for the schools and mentioned the fact that all of them attended both meetings. He also spoke of the series of spelling schools planned for Waterford, and asked the people to attend and encourage them. These gatherings are to be followed by one in which all the schools in town will take part. The children will be divided into two sections by grades so that the younger ones may have a fair chance in the work. The recent grading of the Waterford schools was discussed and the superintendent expressed pleasure at the earnest cooperation of all in that work which had become almost imperative by the state requirements in examinations for free tuition in high schools and academies. The speaker mentioned the fact that the school officers and teachers would arrange for annual graduation exercises to be held at Lower Waterford at the end of the June term for those who then complete the ninth grade; all, of course, being invited to attend the exercises.

The chairman with appropriate remarks then introduced Supt. Clarence H. Dempsy of St. Johnsbury, the county examiner of teachers, who spoke on "The Mission of the Rural Schools" in a way which was pleasing and instructive to all. He showed himself thoroughly conversant and in sympathy with the conditions in the schools of the more thinly settled communities. His suggestions were an inspiration to all who are interested in our schools. He easily sustained his reputation as one of the ablest educators in the state.

Mr. Stone, whose work as an educator during the last 25 years was reviewed by the chairman as an introduction, spoke for an hour of "The New Vermont with Especial Reference to Agriculture," and from start to finish held the audience by his seemingly inexhaustible fund of information as to his subject, and his plain, straightforward expression of the crisis of existing conditions, together with the logically supported remedies which he presented. He urged a more intelligent preparation for farm work and that the schools aid in this work by carefully acquainting the pupils with the possibilities that lie in the fertile soil about us and giving them correct ideas as to the successful development of them. He earnestly supported the proposition that our young people should be encouraged to stay in Vermont and should be taught to do things rather than the bare theory of how things may be done. His address was much enjoyed and could not be else than helpful to all.

Supt. Melville C. Smart of Littleton, who was expected to speak was detained at home as he was entertaining State Supt. E. C. Morrison of New Hampshire. The school directors are to be congratulated on planning and carrying out these meetings with such success.
